

With all this snow we did an investigation into mixing colours and what happens when we put different thing on the snow. We mixed lots of different colours using water sprays, we found that red and blue makes purple and many more. We also looked at what happens if we put a heavy log in the snow it just compacts, and sinks in the snow. We also put an acorn in the snow and it didn't sink and compact the snow. We found that we are like the log and we sank and compacts the snow.
